It is time to make technology a mandatory standard in our educational system. Children should have easy access to technology—whether this is in the form of a computer, the internet, or any other means fit to compete in years ahead.

We are launching our first annual iPad and tablet drive in the hopes to give back to some schools who lack the resources necessary to help their students achieve skills in technology and to help expose children to tech tools who otherwise may not be able to do so.

It's time to close the gap.
